

LEADMOb

PRIVACY POLICY

This Privacy Policy is an integral part of the General Terms and Conditions (“Terms”) placed on www.leadmob.io (“Site”) and describes how the Company collects, uses, and discloses obtained certain personal information on the Site and LEADMobPlatform.

INFORMATION COLLECTED

When you visit the Site, you may provide us with two types of information: personal information that you voluntarily disclose that is collected on an individual basis; and non-personal information collected automatically when you use the Site or the services available on the Site (collectively, the "Information").

We do not knowingly collect any personal information from children under the age of sixteen. If you are under 16, please do not give us any personal information. We encourage parents and legal guardians to monitor their children’s Internet usage and to help enforce our privacy policy by instructing their children never to provide personal information to us without their permission. If you have reason to believe that a child under the age of 16 has provided personal information to us, please contact us at privacy@leadmob.io, and we will strive to delete that information from our databases.

Personal Information

Personal information is information that either identifies an individual or relates to a specific individual, and includes without limitation, a person’s name, physical address, telephone number, email, company affiliation, and in some jurisdictions an IP address.

The Site processes or uses the following personal data:

- first name, last name, username, password, email address, postal address, "wallet" address, contact details, ID data.
- other data that you have provided while contacting us, especially using the contact forms on the Site.

By providing us with your personal information, you also consent for us to collect, hold, use and disclose your personal information in accordance with this Privacy Policy. In addition to providing the foregoing information, if you choose to correspond further with us through e-mail or through the "contact" section of our Site, we may retain, use and disclose the content of your messages together with your e-mail address and our responses.

Non-personal Information

Non-personal information is information that does not reveal a person’s specific identity or relates to a specific individual and may include electronic interaction information, geographic or geo-location information, device information, telemetry information, statistical and aggregated information. While statistical and aggregated information may be derived from personal information we will anonymize any personal information prior to sharing this information with third parties. The Company, through IP tracking and the use of cookies and pixel tags, collects anonymous usage statistics. These are industry standard technologies used by many major websites. No personally identifiable information is collected or used in this process. Information that is collected may include: session data, geography, browser information, IP Address, operating system type, content preferences, Site usage behavior and frequency.

Types of Cookies

The Site uses "cookies" to help you personalize your online experience. A cookie is an identifier, which is stored on your device by your browser, if your browser is configured to do so. Most browsers can be configured to reject cookies or to inform you, when a cookie is stored. By using cookies, the Site collects, processes, and uses your personal data in pseudonymous form for promotional and market research purposes and to adjust the Site to your interests (unless you have opted out of this), for displaying or sending you - if applicable with your consent - information about us and to keep you updated about our products and services that might be of interest to you. Based on this technology we might get reports from our service providers that include references to personal or aggregated data. Aggregated data might include data like general demographic or usage characteristics describing the visitors of our Site.

You may find the following cookies that are used on the Site: (i) the required cookies which enable the navigation and basic functionality of the Site, e.g. access to protected areas of the Site; (ii) the functional cookies allow to analyze your Site usage and your selections on the Site (e.g. your login name, language, or region), so we can remember these settings and to offer you a more personal experience on the Site; these cookies can also be used to remember settings like font size, font style and other configurations that you have chosen on the Site; (iii) advertising cookies with their related services help us to analyze and monitor the effectiveness of our marketing activities. In some cases we make use of third-party service providers to track and analyze statistical information about the usage and scope of content that is used by individual users of the Site. This might result in cookies being set by the service providers to track the performance of our advertisement. These cookies might, for example store information about the browsers that have been used to visit the Site. The information provided to third-party providers by us does not include personal information, but the collected information might be linked with other personal information gathered elsewhere.

You can configure your browser to prevent the storage of these above cookies. Please note in some cases it may reduce the functionality offered by, if you prevent these cookies from being stored.

Publishers and Advertisers have to ensure that the privacy policies of their websites include correct information about cookie usage for advertisement purposes. As the Company may use third-party cookies on Publisher websites displaying Advertiser or the Company ads, Publishers must have and abide by a privacy policy that discloses that third parties (i.e. Advertisers or the Company) may be placing and reading cookies on their users' browsers, or using web beacons to collect information as a result of advertisement serving on the Publisher website.

Log Files

The Site makes use of log files for statistical purposes and internal system specific purposes. The Site also collects, processes, and uses your usage data in combination with your IP address and information about the amount of transmitted data stored in log files. The information inside the log files includes internet protocol (IP) addresses, type of browser, Internet Service Provider (ISP), date/time stamp, referring/exit pages, and number of clicks to analyze trends, administer the Site, track user's movement around the Site, and gather demographic information. IP addresses and other such information are not linked to any information that is personally identifiable. The log files are used to statistically analyze visits on the Site. The data is being deleted after it has been analyzed for statistical purposes.

Pixel tracking

To ensure the correct delivery and effectiveness of the Advertisers' advertising campaigns, Publishers and, in some cases, Advertisers undertake to place on their websites pixel-tracking tags to measure usage statistics.

Publishers and Advertisers can place pixel tags also on their partners' websites (i.e. websites belonging not to them but third parties to where Traffic is directed through the Advertiser's ads).

These tags allow our software to measure non-personal behavioral patterns to indicate the effectiveness of the advertising. No personally identifiable information is collected during this process.

In order to ensure that Internet users are getting the best level of advertising, Publishers and, in some cases, Advertisers undertake to place also audience pixels to track the activity of Internet users and match ads to users. Audience pixels do not store any personally identifiable information.

The Company use audience pixels to match advertisements that may be of interest to Internet users or to assist our Advertisers and Publishers to deliver advertisements and offers that may be of interest to users within a given segment. The activity information collected during this process is not used in any other way by the Company or its clients other than to serve advertisements.
